

Seat Yourself

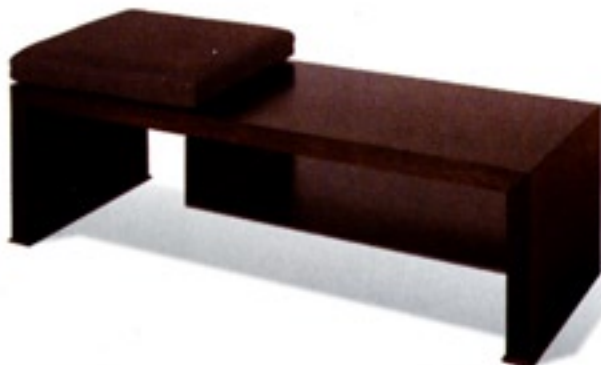

A sumptuous sampler of pieces sure to please a range of palates

Streng Design

Streng Design: We were intrigued by Daniel Streng's low chaise, so animated we thought it might just walk away. It's fashioned from fiberglass composite and available in a variety of colors and two finishes. Streng Design, 938 North Boulevard, Suite 401, Oak Park, IL 60302; www.suba.com/~streng. circle 301

Tracé Simple: The versatile Rivoli table-bench is part of the debut furniture collection from interior designers Nathalie du Luart and Delphine Vendel, alums of Andrée Putman's studio. This extremely refined solution for small spaces is made of matte lacquered steel and walnut or sycamore, both available in a variety of finishes. Tracé Simple Home, 11 West 17th Street, 12th Floor, New York, NY 10011; www.tracesimple.com. circle 302

Tracé Simple

S. Russell Groves: In furniture design as in his architecture, S. Russell Groves continues to seduce us. His weapon of choice? Subtlety—which manifests itself in impeccable craftsmanship, ever-so-refined lines, and luxe materials. This low-slung couch features a hardwood frame and Dacron-wrapped foam cushion. We admit it might not sound sexy, but just take one look. S. Russell Groves, 210 11th Avenue, Suite 502, New York, NY 10001; www.russellgroves.com. circle 303

S. Russell Groves

Perobell: Jorge Pensi's sleek Ginger collection, which includes armchairs, sofas, and beds, debuted at the 2001 Valencia Furniture Fair. Perobell, Avda. Arraona 23, 08205 Sabadell, Barcelona, Spain. circle 304

Perobell